The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

That is $50.00 a week. Glen Sawyer Gilliland letter said he was in arrears of $5,000. They are so financially in debt that can't meet their monthly expenses. Susan is so full of hate and to get revenge she uses the money Bruce & wants to keep Susan's life as upset and he has nothing to show for it. The kids don't call, send a card or a treat. A terrible situation.

Our Bruce called. He had to talk to his lawyer. He sent letters to Susan + her lawyer telling them Bruce doesn't have the money to pay the $5000.00 + he didn't interpete the letter as they did. Edward broke a camper window.

Car kills teen on bicycle on rain-slickened U.S. 89

PLEASANT VIEW — A 17-year-old bicyclist was killed Saturday night on U.S. 89 when his bike was struck from behind by a car driven by an Ogden man.

Pleasant View Police Chief Rex Cragun said James L. McLendon, of Ogden, was killed when he was struck in the southbound lane near 2500 North by a car driven Scott L. Riddle, 35, of Ogden.

The accident occurred at 9:47 p.m. on a rain-slickened spot on the road that was not well-lit, Cragun said.

The accident is still under investigation, but Cragun said it appears the point of impact was in the outside lane of U.S. 89 and that McLendon was wearing dark clothing at the time of the accident.

Another accident that occurred about 5:30 p.m. just a few blocks north of that site sent three people to St. Benedict's Hospital with multiple trauma injuries.

Cragun said North Ogden resident Paul A. Dickamore, 34, was northbound on U.S. 89 and apparently turned left at the intersection of 2700 North in front of a southbound car driven by Janalene Dana, 19, of Ogden.

Also injured in the crash was Dana's passenger, Joseph D. Curfew, 20, of Willard.

Dickamore was scheduled to be released today. Both Dana and Curfew were listed in stable condition this morning.

Dickamore was cited with failure to yield right of way, Cragun said.

We all went to bed at midnight. Not much rest tho. To many worries.

Monday June 18 - 1990 Beautiful day.

I was still upset but didn't say anything until at dinner. I told Michelle a person has to obey rules + regulation in life whether it is living with a family, working - going to school. Chapter 11 bankruptcy filed by CF&I Steel firm

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Citing costs of an underfunded pension plan and continued weak markets for its major product lines, CF&I Steel Corp. of Pueblo, Colo., and nine of its subsidiaries have filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act.

The petitions were filed Wednesday with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Salt Lake City, where one of CF&I's largest subsidiaries, CF&I Fabricators of Utah, is based.

Under Chapter 11, a company is allowed to remain in business and receives court protection from creditor suits while formulating a plan of financial reorganization.

The petitions for reorganization will not affect CF&I Fabricators of Utah, which employs 33 people and fabricates reinforcing bar and wire mesh for use in the construction industry, said Crocker Nevin, chairman of the board of CF&I Steel.

"CF&I Fabricators of Utah will continue to operate and serve its customers as in the past," Nevin said.

CF&I Steel, which claims status as the nation's largest manufacturer of railroad rails and as the only producer of seamless pipe west of the Mississippi, said it has been burdened with the necessity of meeting its contributions to an underfunded pension plan.

It estimated the total underfunded liability of the pension plan at about $140 million.

CF&I said it was unable to make a $12.3 million payment to the pension plan due Sept. 30 and also missed an October quarterly payment of $1.8 million.

The Chapter 11 filing suspends all payments to the pension plan, the company said. CF&I said as part of its reorganization plan it will seek to terminate the pension plan in the near future.

U.S. Secretary of State James Baker (right) shakes hands with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz at start of talks.

Meetings end after 6 hours

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz met for more than six hours today in a tense diplomatic effort to avert war in the Persian Gulf. "Regrettably, I heard nothing today that suggested to me any Iraqi flexibility whatsoever," Baker said.

He said the meeting was to "communicate" and seek a political solution. He said Iraq, if it does not agree to withdraw from Kuwait, could be choosing a military confrontation in which it would be forcibly expelled.

"This is still a confrontation that Iraq can avoid," Baker said.

Aziz was expected to speak with reporters shortly afterward.

A United Nations deadline for Iraqi withdrawal is next Tuesday and Baker said, "The time for talk is running out."

His somber annoucement quickly ended speculation that Congress gives Bush war authority

By JIM DRINKARD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — An anguished and deeply divided Congress on Saturday gave President Bush authority to wage war in the Persian Gulf, and leading lawmakers urged national unity in the wake of the vote. Bush called it a clear signal that Iraq "cannot scorn the Jan. 15 deadline."

George Bush

"This is the practical equivalent of a war resolution," House Speaker Thomas Foley said as the House and Senate somberly rejected calls for continued reliance on diplomacy and economic sanctions to force an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait.

The Senate voted 52-47 to empower Bush to "use United States armed forces" to expel Iraq from Kuwait. A short time later, the House followed suit on a vote of 250-183.

Lawmakers faced their starkest war-and-peace choice in a half century and all but three of the 535 members of Congress voted. Two of the three, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., are seriously ill. There was no immediate explanation for why Rep. Mervyn Dymally, D-Calif., did not vote. Calls to his office late Saturday were unanswered.

"We have not gone the last mile for peace, and until we do the United States Senate should never, never, never vote for war," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

But others said Saddam Hussein's refusal to withdraw his troops from Kuwait left them with no choice.

"Sanctions without a credible military threat would never have any impact," said Senate Republican leader Bob Dole.

Sam Nunn, D-Ga., led the Senate fight against war authority, but said: "If war does occur ... I will support our American military forces with whatever they need to prevail."

Shortly after the congressional votes, Bush met with reporters and underscored the Jan. 15 deadline by which Iraqi troops must be out of Kuwait. He contended that war is not inevitable, but said his thinking is to act "sooner rather than later" if there is no Iraqi compliance by the deadline.

The president returned to the White House from his Camp David, Md., presidential retreat in anticipation of the endorsement he had sought in a joint resolution that now awaits his certain signature.

Hundreds of visitors stood in line under a leaden sky outside the Capitol, waiting for a chance to watch a few moments of history from the visitors' galleries inside.

prieve and "will be retained," Corliss said. They will move into Hill positions that are vacant. Using the vacancies, the number of workers actually losing jobs in about two months dropped to 684, she said.

While 684 unemployed people may seem like a large number, the original Air Force Logistics Command layoff plan announced Nov. 15, 1990, called for elimination of 1,427 positions at Hill as part of a nationwide layoff of 7,250 workers.

The Air Force later cut that Utah number by about 300. And, about the same number of Hill employees agreed to take early retirement, allowing other workers to stay on the payroll. Quits and transfers created other openings. As the layoff was reevaluated, the Hill cutback dropped to about 800 in December, and then to 733 in late January, and finally to the latest number, 684.

Under the November plan, the RIF notices were to go out during January. But delays and modifications had Hill officials saying just 10 days ago it might be early March. That was changed this week when, for the first time, the base was able to use a new automated system to screen the records and shorten the delay.

In theory, "Each Hill employee could be impacted by the RIF as employees exercise their bump and retreat rights," said Tom Dunroe, chief of the base's Affirmative Employment Unit.

If an employee's job is eliminated, he can remain on Hill's workforce by bumping or displacing another employee from a lower-level position in his same area, costing the second worker his job. But that second employee may be able to bump someone else, and so on, Dunroe said. Getting to the end of the chain takes time.

In retreating, an employee can go back to a position he once held, displacing the worker from that job, he said. Bumping and retreating are based generally on longevity of service of both people, veteran's rights and job ratings.

In determining how many employees in what are called industrially funded civilian jobs would be affected, Dunroe said, "we had to look at their displacement, bump and retreat rights" before the notices could go out.

Workers receiving separation letters, by law, have 60 days before they must leave their jobs. However, Corliss said the separation date will be April 15, at the end of that pay period. Those involved in bump or retreat programs will change jobs effective Sunday, April 21.

"Employees receiving a position offer must accept or decline the offer within five work days," said Corliss. "Failure to accept or decline the offer within the specified period will be treated as a declination."

Hill officials will be meeting next week with the monthly workers, explaining their rights. One thing they retain is priority referral for any vacancies at Hill and other federal installations.

Dear Shirley,

I just wanted to write and thank you for the beautiful dish towels. You couldn't have given me anything I needed more — but I don't give you peaches thinking you should repay me. They are a gift. I'm not very talented when it comes within the realm of sewing or cooking but I hope I inherited the trait of giving and sharing from my mother. She was a very special lady.

This summer, if God willing, we'll have more fruit. With the hours of work you did on the dish towels, I still owe you 20 bushels. I'll call you when the peaches are ripe.

Thanks so much for being my good friend, Shirley. As we've discussed before we must have skipped together in the spirit world sort of like we're doing here. Always stay my friend

Love & Appreciate you
